

ABSTRACT

A wire mesh element having soft wire on the outside and precipitation-hardened wire on the inside is used as a bushing, seal, seat, or support, and is useful as an end seal for a catalytic converter. The soft wire on the outside can be flat to aid it shielding the internal wire from corrosion due to impingement hot exhaust gasses.